

Division of Gastroenterology, Hepatology and Nutrition

Fellows

Kate Buzzi, MD
(212) 305-5903

Kate Buzzi, MD, received her undergraduate degree at Bates College, followed by her medical degree from the Drexel University College of Medicine. From 2006 to 2009, Dr. Bates was an intern and resident in pediatrics at Brown University. In 2009, she began her fellowship in pediatric gastroenterology with the Division of Gastroenterology, Hepatology and Nutrition at New York-Presbyterian/Morgan Stanley Children's Hospital. Dr. Buzzi has a particular interest in intestinal development, intestinal motility, and intestinal inflammation. During her fellowship, she is pursuing research on the mechanisms of peristalsis with a goal to identify pharmaceutical targets that can alter intestinal motility.

Kimberley Chien, MD
(212) 305-5903

Kimberley Chien, MD, received her bachelor's degree from Tufts University in 2001 and her MD degree from State University of New York-Downstate College of Medicine in 2006. She completed her postgraduate training as an intern and resident in pediatrics and New York University. In 2009, Dr. Chien joined New York-Presbyterian/Morgan Stanley Children's Hospital to pursue a fellowship in pediatric gastroenterology, specializing in gastrointestinal development, gastrointestinal motility, and functional gastrointestinal disorders. Dr. Chien is studying the effects of serotonin and serotonin receptors on neuro-gastrointestinal development.

Anne Abbott Pierog, MD
(212) 305-5903

A graduate of Dartmouth College, Anne Abbott Pierog, MD, went on to Tufts School of Medicine, where she earned her medical degree in 2008. Dr. Pierog then interned and completed a pediatric residency at New York-Presbyterian Hospital/Columbia University Medical Center, and is now pursuing a fellowship in pediatric gastroenterology at New York-Presbyterian/Morgan Stanley Children's Hospital.

Kerry Jo Lee, MD
(212) 342-2962

Kerry Jo Lee graduated with a BA from Princeton University in 1999 and from the New York University School of Medicine in 2007. Dr. Powers completed an internship and residency in pediatrics at Children's Hospital Los Angeles in 2010 before joining New York-Presbyterian/Morgan Stanley Children's Hospital for a fellowship in pediatric gastroenterology. She has a range of special interests, including public health and public policy, and microbiology and evolutionary biology.

Sarah Anne Taylor, MD

(212) 305-5903

A Summa Cum Laude graduate of Hamilton College in 2003 and a Fulbright Scholarship recipient, Sarah Anne Taylor went on to study medicine at New York University School of Medicine, receiving her MD degree in 2008. She interned and has completed a pediatric residency at Albert Einstein College of Medicine, The Children's Hospital at Montefiore. Dr. Taylor has joined the Division of Gastroenterology, Hepatology and Nutrition at New York-Presbyterian/Morgan Stanley Children's Hospital as a pediatric gastroenterology fellow. She has just been awarded the prestigious Pediatric Scientists Development Award from the Howard Hughes Medical Institute.

Jennifer Vittorio, MD

212) 305-5903

Jennifer Vittorio, MD, received her undergraduate degree from Fairfield University, and her medical degree from Georgetown University School of Medicine. Dr. Vittorio stayed on at Georgetown to pursue her internship and residency in internal medicine-pediatrics with Georgetown University Hospital. She joined New York-Presbyterian/Morgan Stanley Children's Hospital as a pediatric gastroenterology fellow in 2010. Her particular interests are in hepatology, celiac disease, inflammatory bowel disease, and transition of care from pediatrics to adult medicine.